

How I woke up!

01/08/2020

Hey there friends,

So, you might be asking yourself, what 'Wake up from your slumber', has to do with my book 'Number of Man'? Are you ready to take a ride through the seen and unseen worlds, through the visible and invisible, through the physical and the spiritual?

Let me begin by saying my book was impressed on me years ago when stores didn't use scanners and chips for transactions. As they began the transition to the scanning system, I remember saying to a co-worker, "The day will come when they will put the chip in your hands and/or in foreheads for transactions as described in the book of Revelations in the Bible." He laughed at me back then. Who's laughing now?

I was raised in a Christian home and with a father who really talked a lot about Revelations. While many feel it is confusing and possibly scary, I found it fascinating. Of course, I was fascinated with the paranormal in general. Along with horror movies were demons supposedly were coming out of the TV after me and all sorts of Science Fiction shows from Star Trek to Doctor Who. But these shows were keeping me asleep to the reality that was all around me. The reality and depths of the spiritual and supernatural. The world prophesied in the Bible. What God himself has given to us along with the warning to stay awake and keep watch.

My awakening from slumber came little by little, in 2012 when I started writing scripture into notebooks at the suggestion of my sister. At that time, I was still on heavy pain meds for chronic pain, anti-depressants, and then some. Nothing the doctors would give me really helped. But writing out scripture daily in a notebook and finding some insightful bible teachers that went through the Bible step by step did. I don't know when the Bible stopped being boring and became alive and much more interesting than the next episode of Doctor Who. But I started seeing the layers of mysteries that were within the Bible. I have learned many things that were not and still aren't preached in Sunday School or by Pastors in services at church.

In 2016 I became very ill and had to abruptly stop taking all medicines. I had developed a digestive disorder and a metabolic disorder and went from 178 lbs. to 109 lbs. in under 4 months. Everything doctors were trying simply made me worse. I finally took matters in my own hands; or should I say God led me by His hands out of the mainstream treatment system into natural and supernatural healing...into a spiritual battlefield. Though I still struggle with chronic pain and have to be careful with what I eat, I was supernaturally delivered from the depression, anxiety and fears that had kept me trapped most of my life. It was this battle for my life that for the first time I fully surrendered to Jesus Christ and said irrevocably, "God Your Will not mine. Whatever you want me to do, I'll do it."

I feel He has led my research and has opened up this opportunity specifically for this time in history. While writing this book and researching realities in the physical, biological, and technological fields, I've learned much about the science of matter and anti-matter, cloning and gene editing, and all the technological wonders being heralded by many with regards to human implants. I also heard a clock ticking. Yes, I actually heard a clock ticking at times. And no, this wasn't a delusional experience. It was spiritual or should I say supernatural hearing experience. I started feeling a sense of urgency.

God woke me up fully after this. And I have to say, He is bigger than anyone of us give Him credit for; His ways are the best and the most fulfilling ways. Ones that I could never have imagined before. And as I learn to lean and abide in His finished grace and work at the cross and make Him number one in my life, I can truly say...life is good.

But I digress a bit. In talking with many, Christians and non-Christians alike, I am really shocked at how many aren't aware of what is happening in our world all around us. Or if they are aware, they kind of shrug it off and don't think of the implications. We literally are living in a time that Biblical Prophecy is jumping off the pages of the Bible. This is happening on all fronts and in many ways. Many ways I have foreseen, while, others in ways that have been totally unexpected and mind blowing to me.

My goal in this blog is to 'wake up from slumber' those whom want to wake up. Those who want to dive into spiritual/supernatural deep facts about what is happening in the world around us today. I know, I already hear many of you, "Great another Conspiracy Theorist". But realistically, it is this very world system that united the word conspiracy with theory so that many could just shrug and stay asleep. And the mass media has certainly done a great job of aiding in this effort.

But when you research well and find most 'theories' turning into 'facts', then it is time to WAKE UP FROM YOUR SLUMBER...the time has come
